NOTICE.

I MUNCHERJEE MERVANJEE NOWROJEE beg leave to express my contrition and sincere repentance for the publication in the Bombay Courier of the 1st instant against certain new Regulations adopted by the Parsee's Punchaut, which gave rise to a reprimand in the Gazette of the 5th Instant. I humbly assure the Punchaut and the community at large that those expressions on my part originated from a complete ignorance of the ancient Rules and Regulations of the Punchaut. Upon a more deliberate and attentive consideration however of the several new Regulations, I feel persuaded and most unfeignedly confess, that they are uniformly and in every respect calculated for the general benefit of the Community at large and were absolutely necessary, and proper. My Father Mervanjee Nowrojee Monackjee is of the same opinion, and I most heartily and willingly agree to the full tenor of all those new Regulations and feel convinced that I was wrong in giving publicity to those unfounded expressions in the Courier and hope they may be recalled; and with that view I give publicity to this my sincere Confession and repentance, and crave forgiveness of the Punchaut and of the Parsee's Community at large.

ORIGINAL POETRY.

THE BEACON AT SEA.

The scene was more beautiful far to my eye
Than if day in its pride had arrayed it,
The land breeze blew mild, and the azure arch'd sky
Looked pure as the Spirit that made it.
The murmurs rose soft as I silently gaz'd
On the shadowy waves' playful motion,
From the dim distant isle, till the Beacon fire blaz'd,
Like a Star in the midst of the Ocean.

No longer the joy of the Sailor boy's breast
Was heard in his wildly breath'd slumbers,
The sea bird had flown to his wave girdled nest,
The fisherman sunk to his slumbers.
One moment I looked from the hill's gentle slope,
All hushed was the billows' emotion,
And thought that the Beacon looked lovely as Hope,
That Star in Life's tremulous ocean.

The time is long passed, and the scene is afar,
Yet when my head rests on its pillow,
Will Memory sometimes rekindle the star,
That blaz'd on the breast of the billow.
In life's closing hour, when the trembling Soul flies,
And death stills the heart's last emotion
Oh' then, may the Seraph of mercy arise,
Like a Star in Eternity's Ocean.

TIGER SHOOTING.

MR. EDITOR,

Observing in your excellent paper the capital sport, our brother Nimrods have lately had Hog-hunting, I take this opportunity of informing them that we have not been idle here with another kind of game. The Mominabad Sportsmen have killed nine Royal Tigers since the 1st of the month and one wild Cow—making a total of fifty six (56) Royal Tigers, four Panthers, and nine Neil Ghai's in less than two years, which remark my sporting friend Ramrod forgot to acquaint you, in his communication.

It is needless for me to enlarge on the great benefit rendered to the Cultivators by the destruction of these monsters.

The Cattle begin to graze in comparative security, and the Herdsman on returning in the evening to his village, says, thanks to the Sahib Logue at Mominabad, I have had no loss to-day.

"Long may they be there, and kill Tigers."

Your obedient servant,
RIFLE.

October 13th 1823.

PARA. 2d. In consequence of the report made to us by the Government of Bengal, of the melancholy extent of blindness among the Native Soldiers, arising from Cataract, and of the prevalence of Ophthalmia among the Children of the Orphan School, & adverting to the great benefits which have arisen from the establishment of an Eye Infirmary at Madras under the superintendence of a Surgeon who had directed his particular attention in this Country to the treatment of diseases of the Eye, we have resolved to send out as Assistant Surgeons, one Individual on the Bengal Establishment and another on the Establishment of your Presidency, who are well qualified to practise as Oculists.

BOMBAY,

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 15TH, 1823.

The Hon'ble Company's Surveying Ship Investigator, having the Hon'ble John Adam on board, anchored in the harbour on Wednesday evening. Mr. Adam was received on landing by the Hon'ble the Governor, and proceeded immediately to Parell. A salute in honor of his arrival was fired at sun rise on Thursday. We are glad to learn that Mr. Adam's health is improved by the sea Voyage. It is said that the Investigator will proceed on a survey to the Eastward in the course of a few days.

The Hon'ble Company's Cruizers Mercury and Vestal sailed for Calcutta on Sunday last, and the Aurora, having on board Lieut. Col. Stannus and suite for Bushire, sailed on Monday evening.

By the Milford, Capt. Horwood, which arrived on Tuesday evening last, from China the 7th of August, letters have been received containing accounts of the markets up to that date. We are sorry to say the report is an unfavourable one and little prospect of an amendment held out.

All the Cotton from Bombay was still on hand amounting, before the arrival of any of the Indiamen, to 20.000 bales and 8 tale was the highest price offered.

Opium of all descriptions had fallen considerably. Malwa was fluctuating from 1100 to 1200 dollars and some inconsiderable sales had been affected at Dr. 1160 per Chest. The quantity on hand at the period of the Milford's sailing was estimated at 5700 Chests.

Straits' produce was generally in little request, and Europe articles were also dull

None of the Hon'ble Company's Ships, except the Bombay from England direct, had arrived when the Milford sailed.

Since the publication of our Extra, on Wednesday last, announcing the arrival of the Columbia, we have been favored with the loan of two or three London Newspapers of July, brought by Capt. Chapman, from which we have selected the latest intelligence of the operations on the Continent as well as some domestic articles of general interest.

It appears that the constitutional Cortes of Spain, with their prisoner the King, are in Cadiz under a strict blockade both by land and sea, and to all external appearance the constitutional cause is in a deplorable condition. No stand appears to have been made in any part of the Country, and the rallying points have generally been evacuated on the approach of the French force, which has now spread itself nearly all over Spain. According to the French papers the lower order of the Spanish people are decidedly in favor of the Royalist party, but their accounts are of course not altogether to be depended on, and we earnestly hope that desperate as the cause appears to be, the struggle for liberty in Spain is not yet at an end.

In Portugal the utmost confusion seems to prevail of which the following paragraph is no slight proof.

"Letters received from Oporto state, that City is suffering under all the terrors and confusion of a Military predominance. The Soldiers availing themselves of the power and versatility acquired by their double treachery, oppress impartially the Royalists and Constitutionalists It is rather a curious fact that an application has been made by the Portuguese Government to the Dutch Consul at Lisbon, for a copy of the Constitution of the Netherlands, granted in the year 1814, under the auspices of England.

The Consul not having a copy in his possession, nor contemplating the possibility of such a request, had written his Court to obtain one properly authenticated.—Why did not the Portuguese Government apply to their oldest friend and Ally England?"

It is hinted that no great degree of confidence existed between the Russian and British Cabinets, and that the Emperor Alex- [illegible] American Envoys with considerable coolness and difference when questioned on the subject of the pretensions of Russia to power in the Pacific Ocean. We should not be sorry to see the Russians and Americans go to loggerheads.

We have not found anything respecting the removal of the restrictions on British Ships bound to this Country, in any of the papers in our possession; but we are told by the Commander of the Columbia that on clearing out at the Liverpool Custom house, when he presented his license to the clearing Officer, he was informed that NO LICENSES WERE NOW NECESSARY FOR SHIPS BOUND TO THE EAST INDIES; it is therefore probable that the Bill had passed before the prorogation of parliament.

We have been unable to learn any thing further, than our readers are already acquainted with, respecting the Supreme Court at this Presidency. There can be little doubt, however, that the measure had received the sanction of the legislature before the conclusion of the Session

Early in July last, Burns's Monument at Ayr was completed, by the Tripod being raised and fixed on the Summit, with appropriate Masonic ceremonies, and a considerable quantity of eating and drinking as is usual on these occasions.

His Majesty had left town for Windsor, by a paper of the 21st July, and as no notice is taken of his health, we may hope it was quite reinstated. He was preparing for a sea trip in the channel.

H. M. Ship Slaney, 18, Captain Charles Mitchell, fitted for the East India Station, was to sail from Portsmouth on the 14th July. Lieutenant Bennett and thirteen privates of the Royal Marine Corps, who have voluntered to reinforce the garrison of Ascension, had embarked in her.

It may be remembered that some of the Seamen on board the George the IV, misconducted themselves very much when that Ship was here last year, & were punished on the complaint of her Commander by the Magistrates of the Petty Court—with reference to this is the following from a London paper.

"Saturday 12th July—John, Castles a Seaman of the George IV, was brought up to the Thames Police, charged by his Commanding Officer with having, on the high seas, wilfully and maliciously stabbed him with a carving-knife with intent to murder him. Captain J. Clarke deposed that in February last the Ship was in Bombay, on the 9th or 10th February the prisoner requested leave to go on shore which witness acceded to, and supplied him with two Sovereigns: at the expiration of the leave granted he did not return. Witness applied to the police to apprehend him as a deserter, which was done; on the following day he was brought on board, & sentenced to receive two dozen lashes; he was fastened to the Main-rigging, received his lashes and returned to his duty. About three weeks after, a complaint was lodged by one of the Troops of the 24th detachment on board, charging the prisoner with stealing rum out of his chest. The offence being proved, Captain Clarke ordered the prisoner to be put in Irons which he resisted—in act of being forced to that punishment he exclaimed "Damn you" (meaning the witness Capt. C.). "I'll now be hung for Murder!" and drawing a carving-knife which he had secreted about his person, he plunged it under witness's Ear who fell immediately on the Deck—the witness's life was for some time despaired of—the case was remanded for further evidence".

price in the great staple of Indian consumption cumulated very much within the last week owing to the continued holding off of the Rains, which usually fall early in the Month. Some few partial Showers have fallen since Saturday, and we trust appearances are now very favourable for a further supply of Rain. If, however, the drought continues much longer, the pretence will be eagerly seized upon by the holders of Grain to enhance the price still further, and probably a real scarcity may be aprehended. We do not remember in our limited experience so dry and unfavourable a Season as the whole of this year has proved.

THE FOLLOWING GENERAL ORDERS ISSUED TO HIS MAJESTY'S FORCES IN INDIA.

Head-Quarters, Cawnpore, 14th October, 1823.

GENERAL ORDERS.

His Excellency the Commander in Chief in India is pleased to make the following Promotions and appointments until His Majesty's pleasure shall be known.

44th Foot.

Lieutenant James Paton, from the 57th Regiment, to be Lieutenant without purchase, vice Nixon deceased.

46th Foot.

Ensign George Varlo from the 59th Regiment to be Ensign, vice Drew promoted.

47th Foot.

Ensign John C. Drew, from the 46th Regiment to be Lieutenant without purchase, vice Paton removed to the 44th Regiment.

By Order of His Excellency the Commander in Chief, THOS. McMAHON, Col. A. G.

We have the pleasure to announce the arrival of the H. C. C. Ship Rockingham, Capt. Beach, from London the 19th June. The following is a List of her passengers:—

Misses—D'Oyly, Wiggins, Hewett, Burrup, Peard and Susan Peard—Lieut. Tuckett, H. M. 11th Light Dragoons—Messrs. D'Oyly, Hewett and Clark, Free Merchants—Smith and Greenway returning to their friends;—two Ayahs.

We are distressed to learn that accounts have been received of the existence of a most distressing scarcity of grain in the Line of Country between Nellore and Ganjam. Government have lost no time in ordering a vessel to be taken up for the conveyance of a supply of Rice to Coringa. It is stated that many families in the vicinity of Ingeram had gone without food two or three days. We much fear the public aid will yet be called for.

The Reverend D. Corrie, L. L. B. Senior Chaplain of this Presidency was this day installed Archdeacon of Calcutta with the usual ceremonies

Sunday arrived the Ann. Gibson, from Rangoon, which place she left the 28th of September.

Passengers by the Ann—Capt. Thompson, late Commander of the Rangoon Packet—Messrs. P. B. Hughes and Thomas Cartwright late Officers of the Ship Mary, and twenty Portuguese Crew of the same Ship, three Servants of Capt. Thompson, five Burmese, and one Armenian. We understand that the exact position of these Shoals has never been accurately laid down, and indeed that the whole Coast is imperfectly known. A Survey would therefore be highly desirable, and it is not improbable that this spot will afford the first ground for the new Surveying Ships.

John Bull Oct. 27, 1823.

Ship Atlas.

Accounts have been received in town from the ship Atlas, wherein it is stated that there is every probability of the ship being saved. The greater part of her cargo has been taken out of the forehold: and the ship has lifted forward three feet out of the mud. There are a number of workmen, and coolies, ordered down to assist getting her afloat, and it is to be hoped that the ship will be off town in 10 or 12 days. The Atlas is supposed to be one of the finest ships, built in the river Thames,

Ship Stentor.

The ship Stentor, Captain Harris, arrived off town on the 22d, without encountering any farther accident; she was hauled into Captain Richardson's Dock on the morning of the 23d at 2 o'clock (A. M); and such was the expedition used in pumping out the Dock, that the ship's keel was out of the water in the short space of a few hours, from the time the dock gates were secured. A survey was held on the ship on Friday morning and the damage sustained does not appear to be of so serious a nature, as was at first apprehended. It is anticipated that the repairs she will have to undergo, will not detain her long; and that she will be able to proceed on her voyage in the course of twelve or fourteen days.

SUPREME COURT.
October 22nd, 1823.

To day, being the first day of term, the Hon'ble the Judges took their seats on the bench at the usual hour, and the session being opened in form, and the Grand Jury sworn, they were addressed by the Hon'ble Sir A. Buller in the following words:

I am happy to have it in my power to congratulate you on the very small number of cases, which appear in the present Calendar. At the last Sessions the numbers were also small, and although I am fully aware that other causes besides the decrease of crime may account for the decrease of commitments, yet I cannot help hoping from that connected with other circumstances, that in point of fact the number of offences latter... ...ice Establishment, and the more respectable ...oting upon which the thannadars have been placed by the addition made to their salaries, have, I trust, tended to prevent the commission of crime with the same frequency as formerly. It must be remembered, however, that no watchfulness on the part of the Police will be sufficient unless there is some corrsponding care on the part of the inhabitants also. Among the few cases which will be brought before you, three or four are on charges of forgery, and I cannot help feeling that that crime has been carried to a much greater extent than it otherwise would have been from the little caution which appears to me to be used in paying and discounting bills by the mercantile houses of this place, and one successful fraud of this nature in particular leads always to the commission of many more. I make this observation not only in consequence of the information now returned by the Magistrates, but of former trials in this Court in which it has appeared that bills have been paid when little similarity has existed between the real and forged signatures, and when the persons whose names have been forged have been either the partners of established houses, or Europeans well known in this place. In one of the cases in the present calendar, three successive forgeries are charged to have been committed of three negociable instruments in the short space of six weeks. In each of the cases Messrs. Lamb and Co. are the alleged drawers, Messrs. Palmer and Co. the acceptors, and a clerk, I think, of Messrs Lamb and Co.'s the Endorser, all parties living within a short space of the Commercial Bank with whom the two first bills were actually discounted, notwithstanding the names of the drawers, acceptors and endorser are all stated to be forged, and though they are irregular in their form, as they purport to be promissory notes of Messrs. Lamb and Co. though drawn upon and accepted by Messrs. Palmer and Co.

In one case indeed, the informations on which I have only had an opportunity of reading this morning I am sorry to observe that a much more methodized plan of forgery has been contemplated than I remember to have seen attempted since I have been in this country. This plan had been matured considerately, copper plates engraven to represent the notes of the Bank of Hindostan, and I believe, the Bengal Bank; silver stamps for the fabrication of water marks, other implements used by experienced forgers have been seized, and steps have been taken for imitating not only the notes of these two Banks, but also the Company's paper and some notes have been found in a finished state. I trust however the fraud has been detected before any great evil has originated from it. I am not aware in what measure it is intended to indict the prisoners but should they be indicted for the forgery I would remark that crime consists in making a false instrument with intent to defraud. That intent is generally proved by the uttering and passing it off, but that intent may be proved by other evidence and the offence may be complete though no publication has taken place, and consequently no injury has been sustained nor immediately attempted to be effected by offering to pass it off.

With respect to the crimes with which the other Prisoners are charged, it does not occur to me that any legal points will arise out of the usual course and I shall therefore not trouble you with any observation on them.

At the conclusion of this address the Grand Jury retired to their room.

PROROGATION OF PARLIAMENT.

Parliament was this day Prorogued by Commission, his Majesty not deeming it advisable to risk the possible consequences to his health, of going through the fatigue of the ceremony.

The Commissioners were the Lord Chancellor, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Lord Harrowby, Earl of Liverpool, and Earl of Westmorland.

The House of Commons were summoned to the Bar at two o'clock precisely. The Commission for giving the Royal Assent to certain Bills, and for Proroguing the Parliament, was then read, & the several Bills having received the Royal Assent, the Lord Chancellor proceeded to deliver the following speech:—

"My Lords and Gentlemen,

"We are commanded by his Majesty, in releasing you from your attendance in Parliament, to express to you his Majesty's acknowledgments for the zeal and assiduity wherewith you have applied yourselves to the several objects which his Majesty recommended to your attention, at the opening of the Session.

"His Majesty entertains a confident expectation that the provisions of internal regulation, which you have adopted with respect to Ireland, will, when carried into effect, tend to remove some of the evils which have so long afflicted that part of the United Kingdom.

"We have it in command from his Majesty to thank you for the supplies which you have granted for the service of the year, and to assure you that he has received the sincerest pleasure from the relief which you have been enabled to afford his people, by a large reduction of Taxes.

"My Lords, and Gentlemen,

"His Majesty has commanded us to inform you that he continues to receive from all foreign Powers, the strongest assurances of friendly disposition towards this Country.

"Deeply as his Majesty still regrets the failure of his earnest endeavours to prevent the interruption of the peace of Europe, it affords him the greatest consolation that the principles upon which he has acted, and the policy which he has determined to pursue, have been marked with your warm and cordial concurrence as consonant with the interest, and satisfactory to the feelings of his people."

Parliament was then prorogued to Tuesday the 30th September.

What a scene of woe does this colony present just now! Widows lamenting the deaths of their husbands, families mourning for the loss of parents. Every thing seems to conspire against this unfortunate colony, which is now visited with one of the most baneful fevers that was ever seen in this or any other place. Trade is depressed beyond all former precedent, and nothing but misery and despair seem to be depicted in the countenances of the few Europeans who yet remain. Nearly 80 persons have died within six weeks. Amongst whom are the following, viz.:—Mrs. de Marrie, wife of the Dutch Commissary; Messrs. Hodgson, Keith, E. Wilson, Bunyer, Bartlett, Gorllett, Hunter, Beck, Captain Langley, Creighton, M'Coy, White, Owen, Capt. Pounder, Hugh Chuber, Mitton (printer), Martin, Sheriff, Ambrose, Partlett, Glennie, Capt. Tylguer; four seamen of the ship Hadlow, in two days; the ship Caroline lost nearly all her crew, 25 in number; Captain Fox, 2d West India Regiment; Deputy Assistant-Commissary-General Brown; Rev. Mr. Lane, Rev. Mr. Palmer. Rev. Mr. Schemel, T. O'Meara, Esq.; John Walsh, Esq.; Dr. Kennis; F. Sawyer, Esq. The Rev. Mr. Flood, and the Rev. Mr. Johnson, died on their passage from Sierra Leone to England, about the begining of June last. The Colony contains about 100, or 110 Europeans."—Hampshire Telegraph.

IRELAND.

TWELFTH OF JULY.

(FROM THE DUBLIN FREEMAN'S JOURNAL.)

The measures taken by the Irish Government for the preservation of the public peace on this day, (Saturday 12th inst.) reflect much credit upon them ... intimated their wish that a dangerous and offensive practice might be discontinued, but they also took care to shew they were resolved that it should not be repeated. About ten o'clock last night, a large body of Policemen attended in College-green ... shortly afterwards a strong Military Foot Guard marched down to the Bank in the immediate neighbourhood of the Statue, where they took up their quarters for the night. A troop of Dragoons ... rode down to College-green from the Barrack, to which they returned immediately ... Riding School, in the Lower Castle yard, ... prepared for their reception, and there they remained all night, ready to act at a moment's notice, should their presence and assistance be found necessary. We are happy to say, up to this moment, (two o'clock, A. M.) there has been no occasion to call upon them. Considerable numbers of persons have passed through College-green since ten o'clock, and a few ... cheered now and then about the Statue, but no attempt has been made to disturb the public peace. The neighbourhood has been perfectly quiet, for the first time within our recollection on the 12th of July.

FIVE O' CLOCK.

Up to this hour there has been no attempt to dress the statue.

Precisely at 12 o'clock three vollies of musketry were fired from a house in Great Brunswick-street.

The Magistrates of the Head and College-street Police Offices have been in attendance all night.

DEATH OF SIR HENRY RAEBURN.—It is with sincere regret we announce the death of that eminent artist Sir Henry Raeburn, who has for a long period occupied the first place among the portrait-painters of his country. Sir Henry died at his house at St. Bernard's Stockbridge, early on Sunday morning.—Edinburgh Paper.

MONDAY EVENING, JULY 21.

"CITY, TWO O'CLOCK.

"The French Funds, as well as all Foreign Stock have advanced at Paris; letters by the Expresses today mention, that the Rentes on Saturday left off at 91f. 65c, but in the course of the day had touched 91f 80c. The Scrip had been sold at 2½ premium which is as high a quotation as any since the Loan was contracted for. In Spanish Bonds there had not been much business transacted.

"Our own Funds opened this morning at 83, but rose to 83¼.

"In the Foreign Funds there is no material alteration, Spanish Bonds are pretty stationary at 32½ and 33. Colombian Bonds are 1 per cent higher & French Scrip may be quoted at 1¼ and 2 per cent. premium."

We have received, by Express, the Etoile of Friday evening. It contains news of much interest, but of great importance.

Intelligence from Montoro, dated July 6, states that a Coustitutional partisan had excited some agitation in that vicinity, by assembling a troop of resolutes, amounting to about 300, who shouted for ever! Four of the inhabitants who replied to these vociferations by exclamations of "God for ever," were instantly massacred. The peasantry armed themselves with domestic implements, and, on their approach these wretches dispersed. An active pursuit of them is on foot.

A despatch from Viscount Donnadieu, dated Andujar, the 9th inst. addressed to Marshal Moncey, gives an account of the dislodgement of the enemy from the position of Molins del-Rey, in which he highly praises the intrepidity of the troops ... engaged on that occasion, and makes especial mention of the distinguished conduct of various officers.

ROYAL ORDINANCE.—LOUIS, &c.

On the Report of our Minister Secretary of State for the department of the Interior. Having seen the letter addressed on the 4th inst. by our cousin the Duke de la Rochefoucault, to the Prefect of Police, we have ordained and ordain as follows:—

Art. 1. The functions of Inspector-General of the Institution for the promotion of Arts & Trade, Member of the Council-General of Prisons, of the Council-General of Manufactures, of the Council of Agriculture, of the Council-General of the Hospitals of Paris, and of the Council-General of the Department of l'Oise are hereby revoked.

Art. 2. Our Minister Secretary of State for ...

"LIANCOURT, JULY 4

"Sir,—I have received the letter which you have done me the honour to address me, and inclosing the Ordinance of his Majesty relative to the Special Council of the Prisons of Paris. I have long expected the suppression of this Council, whose activity and vigilance may possibly thwart the secret views and arbitrary acts of the Government, and which its creation imposed upon it the duty of opposing by all the means in its power.

"Impressed with the evident inutility of the phantom of the proposed new Council I have determined to solicit your acceptance of my resignation, and that I may not henceforth be ranked amongst its Members.

"Receive, Sir, the assurance of my high consideration.

(Signed) The DUKE DE LA ROCHEFOUCAULT.

"To Monsieur the Prefect of Police."

"PARIS, JULY 18.

"We have just received the Madrid Diario of the 18th inst. It merely contains a continuation of the names of persons who have voluntarily subscribed towards the maintenance of General Quesada, and an order to all the Chiefs and Officers of the Provincial Regiments to assemble to be reviewed.

"PUYCERDA, JULY 8.

"The Colonel Don Joseph Mirales has just taken from the Constitutionalists, in an heroic manner, the head of his unfortunate father. He had the courage to go and take it down from the top of one of the gates of Lerida, where it was exhibited. The soldiers who were on guard at the spot have all been condemned to death, on the charge of having accepted a bribe, which is false. The same officer beat the Constitutionalists at Granet, on the 1st July, and took from them a considerable sum of money.

(BY AN EXTRAORDINARY COURIER.)

"MADRID, JULY 12.

"The 2d corps has continued its movement against the troops of Ballasteros, assembled at Murcia. It was thought that the General would have defended the important position which he occupied; but as soon as our advance guard arrived at Caniche, the enemy retired in all haste. Two entire regiments, with their officers and standard (the infantry regiment Lorca, and the Queen's Cavalry Corps), came over to our troops amidst shouts of 'Long live Ferdinand!'

"Count Molitor entered Murcia on the 7th, where he was perfectly well received. On the same day, our troops proceeded onward against Carthagena and Grenada.

"General Bordesoult, who has formed the blockade of Cadiz by land, is incessantly occupied in completing it by sea, in concert with Rear-Admiral Hamelin. Already several light vessels are cruizing before the port, and seconding our fleet. Fifty coasters which were watching an occasion to introduce grain, have been captured or dispersed.

"SEVILLE, JULY 5.

"The brigade of dragoons of General St. Mars has overtaken the artillery of General Lopes Banoz, at Huelva, and forced the enemy to abandon 20 pieces of cannon, and 30 caissons of artillery.

"Andalusia is animated with the same Royalist sentiments which predominate in all the other provinces of Spain.

"CATALO, JULY 14.

"General Saarfield, who had been nominated to replace Mina in the Government of Catalonia has joined M. the Marshal, and presented his submission to the King. This General was the only military Chief amongst those opposed to the 4th Corps, whose ability was really useful to the Constitutionalists.

"The most complete anarchy reigns in Barcelona and every day fresh atrocities are committed and increase the terror of the inhabitants, of whom a great number have evacuated the town.

"The investment of Barcelona is completed the garrison has made several sorties; they have been constantly beaten, and often by forces which were inferior.

There are several French ships of war in the roads of Mataro, amongst others, La Centaur, of 80 guns, on board of which is the Commander in Chief of the King's naval forces in the Mediterranean.

"All these ships several of which have made prizes & captured privateers, are alternately employed in blockading Barcelona and cruizing, and also in convoying traders laden with provisions and forage destined from France to Mataro, which town is now in a respectable state of defence.

"P. S. Positive advices state as certain, that the provisions in Barcelona will soon be consumed; that differences begin to be manifested between the garrison and the Chiefs. A certain number of deserters have already presented themselves at our advanced posts. The foreign battalion is disliked; it is even disgusted itself with the duty which is imposed upon it. A numerous party of Royalists await with impatience the moment when they can act with any chance of success.

"The head-quarters is established at Saria, a small league distant from the town.

We have received a Lisbon Mail, bringing papers to the 8th inst. They contain a circular, addressed by the Count de Palmella to the Portuguese Ministers at Foreign Courts, announcing the Counter-Revolution which had taken place, and giving a brief history of the events that preceded and followed that auspicious change. This official document we received through a private channel, and laid before our readers last Wednesday.

We are glad to perceive by these Papers, that the services of this brave and loyal men, who at the instigation of the noble-minded Amarante took up arms to deliver their King and country from the faction that tyrannised over both, are not forgotten by his Most Faithful Majesty. He has ordered gold medals to be distributed to the officers, and silver ones to the men, who formed part of the regenerating army, as it was justly called.

Extract of a letter from Rome, received by Express at Paris, and dated the 8th July:—

"I hasten to transmit to you some circumstantial details of the deplorable accident which befel his Holiness on the evening of the 6th.

"The Holy Father had, during the day, taken an airing in his carriage as usual. In the evening he dismissed his attendants, and gave audience to his Secretary, to whom he gave permission to depart about ten o'clock.

"His Holiness then remained alone, and being seated in an arm chair, was about to rise from it, and placed one hand on a bureau, and with the other endeavoured to grasp a rope which hung from the wall for that purpose. His Holiness, on getting up, was not able to reach the cord, and fell upon the marble slab between the table and the arm chair. His hand did not touch the ground, as his whole weight fell upon his left side.

"Alarmed by his cries, the domestics hastened to the room, and having conveyed him to bed, the serious effects of the fall were evident from the convulsive movements of the body.

"On the first visit at night, the surgeons declared that the upper part of the thigh bone was broken. The Faculty, in the morning, agreed, on examination, as to the truth of that opinion.

"His Holiness passed an agitated night, but without fever; his pulse was almost natural.

"Cardinal Gonsalvi is incessant in his attendance, he does not quit the bedside except for an instant. The persons around his Holiness are in an extremely embarrassing situation, because ignorant of the state in which he is. His Holiness is desirous of not remaining in bed.

"There have been remarks made that this accident occurred on the anniversary of the fatal night of the 6th and 7th of July 1809, on which he was carried off.

"The general rumour to-day is, that the fever has manifested itself during the night, and that his Holiness is in the greatest danger.

(FROM THE MONITEUR.)

"The Pope has met with a serious accident. On the evening of the 6th he fell, in rising from his chair, and fractured the neck of the femoral bone. He was alone at the time, but his cries brought his attendants, and he was removed to bed. The surgeons had not informed him of the fracture. On the evening of the 7th he was seized with fever, and on the following day it was reported in Rome that his Holiness was in great danger.

(PRIVATE LETTER.)

CADIZ, JUNE 26.

The blockade by the French 74 (the Colosse) and two frigates continues, and yesterday they prevented two Swedish ships from entering, and detained also an English three-masted ship, which is still detained by the French ships. The name of the English vessel and her proceeding is not yet known.

Small craft are going in and out, as the French ships show little experience in blockading harbours; so far that, two days ago, two Spanish merchant men (one from Vera Cruz, very rich—the other from Cuba), after being chased in all directions, by skilful manœuvres safely entered the bay; and this day another Spanish costella has also safely entered. By the first easterly wind a great deal of provisions is expected from Gibraltar in coasting boats, and great profits will be derived from such speculations. The latter day entered also in sight of the Fleet, who had steered too much to the eastward, a convoy of about fifty craft, bringing part of the division of Lopez Banos.

The Spanish navy anchored in the bay consist of the Asia, 64, one frigate, two corvettes, and two brigs; but they are all short of crews. However, the Deputy at Cortes, Don Cayetano Valdes, having been appointed Admiral, and being known as a brave and active man, it is expected he will remove all obstacles, and enable the said ships to act against the enemy.

Since yesterday the French have extended their line as far as Port Royal, and sent to reconnoitre the Point of Trocadero, but the battery has checked them, the new Minister of War having ordered the fire in person.

We believe they will not occupy the left shore of our place, and that we shall remain in free communication with Gibraltar, Malaga, &c.

Respecting the number of French on the opposite coast, the reports are very uncertain; the whole will not exceed 9,000 men, amongst which there are a good deal of cavalry. Part of this are mostly German soldiers, who were formerly in the English service, and many of them have spoken in English with an Englishman who by a detour was enabled to come over here.

It is reported that, in the course of this week a good part of the numerous troops assembled at San Fernando, and here (who may be calculated at 12,000 men, militia included) will undertake an excursion under the command of Riego.

The surrender to the Constitutional troops of the Castle of Murviedro, called Saguato, is given as certain; and the Spaniards expect great things from their brave General Ballasteros.

No news from Catalonia.—Barcelona continues to be blockaded by the French vessels. Sir W. A'Court, the English Ambassador together with different other Envoys, remain still in Seville, with which place all communications are cut off. A Portuguese corvette has landed here the new Ambassador of Portugal for Spain.

Neither the King nor his Brothers leave their Palace, where his Majesty amuses himself in the afternoon playing on the terrace with his suite, in which way people can see and bless him. The Cortes continue in their sittings in the same church where the Constitution was established in the year 1812.

The suicide of the late War Minister, Don Sanchez Salvador, is attributed to his co-operating in the plot which was discovered shortly before the departure of the Government from Seville. The English General Downie, who was Governor of the King's Palace in Seville, with the other conspirators, are confined in the prisons of Caraca, near the arsenal of Cadiz.

(FROM THE DIARIO CONSTITUCIONAL OF CORUNNA, OF JULY 8.)

This paper contains the following analytical reply of Quiroga to the letter addressed to him by General Morillo, a translation of which appeared in the Courier of Friday last.

1. "My dear Quiroga—You have done a foolish thing in opposing yourself to the passage of an officer, who, by my orders, was carrying despatches to the Authorities of Catalonia, to whom I wished to communicate the events which had occurred in this city on the 26th instant; and in permitting the persons who accompanied him to falsify facts, by painting my conduct as that of a traitor to my country."

Answer.—No one would deem it strange that the Patriots who accompanied me, blamed the conduct of General de Carthagena; but it so happened that only two foreign officers followed me who were unacquainted with the Spanish tongue.

2. "Determined to make every sacrifice to repel foreign invasion, and to defend the Political Constitution of the Monarchy."

Answer.—If General Morillo professed these principles it must be owned that he possesses in a high degree the art of dissembling—as all his steps, all his precautions, and even his public and private conversations were directed to disorganize the army, to prevent its increase, and to combat and deaden the enthusiasm which was manifested for the defence of that sacred Code; when I shall get my hands on certain interesting papers that at this time are out of my possession, I shall offer irrefragable proof of this truth.

3. "I saw that it (the Political Constitution) was fundamentally attacked, and could not sanction a proceeding that both the people and the army detested."

Answer—The uniform and simultaneous declaration in favour of the good cause throughout the whole extent of Ancient Galicia and Asturias, without any combination or plan whatever, is a proof of the appreciation by the people and the army of the false and exaggerated accounts insidiously circulated by the pretended Regency of Madrid and its agents, the only data on which the Count of Carthagena has founded so violent and absurd a resolution, or, in a word, the specious pretext of which he availed himself to consummate the plan of iniquity, and which he had long projected.

4. "You were witness of the opinion generally pronounced by the different persons whom I assembled, in order to proceed on the surest grounds in so delicate a conjuncture."

Answer—A Junta, chiefly composed of persons engaged in the plot, a company of grenadiers at the door of his house, and threatens to shoot every one who should oppose his determination, are not means for the examination of opinion, but for dictating laws at pleasure.

5. "As for yourself, while you acceded to the principles which actuated them, but doubting the authority of the Journal which had conveyed them, and of the particular views which confirmed the whole, you alone recognised the Regency conditionally.

Answer—As it is maliciously wished to make me an accomplice of the horrible attempt of the Count de Carthagena, I am under the necessity of copying literally my expressions, and I leave to the sound judgement of the Spanish people to decide, if from them can be deduced a conformity with the principles declared by that General. On seeing the dismal and exaggerated picture which he drew of our situation, I said "that if all the provinces gave way there should not be a drop of blood shed for my cause or for my particular interests."

6. "Convinced of every thing, you determined to put your person in security, and for this purpose asked assistance from me, which I liberally gave you, adding, that as the finances amounted to only 70,000 reals, I could not give you more than 40,000, but I promised to give you afterwards greater sum from my own property.

Answer—This is a new proof of what my opinion was, because in case through weakness or infatuation the provinces should submit to the order of things, which the Count of Carthagena decided of his own proper authority, as I would never treat with despotism, I was thinking of departing to a foreign country, taking with me my liberty, for which purpose I asked a payment; he gave me 40,000 reals, with the view, undoubtedly, of freeing himself from my presence; the use which was afterwards made of this sum may be seen in the Supplement of the Diario of the 4th of the present month.

7. "Wilt thou be traitor to the promises thou voluntarily madest to me at parting, with my demanding them from thee?"

Answer—I publish the promises which I made to the Count de Carthagena, now so contrary; but on the contrary, in every respect conform to the course I have taken.

8. "And wilt thou add to this stain on thy honour that of attacking mine, permitting the false account which those who accompany thee circulate respecting my conduct?"

Answer—He who fails so scandalously in his duty, and violates his oaths, he who sells the justest cause for which men combat, ought not to be astonished that he is called by his proper name.

9. "I have formed such an opinion of your ho...

11. "It appears that the French have already …ded Asturias, and that on the 24th of this month … were already in Oviedo."

Answer—The Count de Carthagena is quite at …e in this matter, and he could be certain of the …vasion of the province of Asturias, as it was prepared by himself, he having removed the obstacles which might have been opposed to it

12. "Numerous forces are assembling in Leon, and the invasion of Galicia may be considered as very near. In this state of things I had proposed to myself to resist the invasion vigourously."

Answer—The Count de Cartagena must consider the Spaniards very blind or stupid when he endeavours to persuade them that he had proposed to resist the invasion vigorously, when we saw him adopt every means directly the reverse,—What are we to think of the veteran the war-proof veteran corps, scattered throughout the whole extent of Gallicia, at the same time that the vanguard was composed of corps of militia newly raised, without uniform, ill armed and without any instructions whatever?

13. "Waiting for the happy moment when the King and the nation should adopt that form of government which would be most expedient."

Answer—This is the same as refusing to acknowledge the national sovereignty, and destroying from a single stroke of the pen, the whole Constitutional edifice.

14. "My friendship for you, and my gratitude for that friendship which you have always shewn towards me, make it a duty that I should not confine myself to mere advice; but I should offer you whatever is in my power for your personal safety."

Answer—The security of my person is of little consequence, let the Count de Carthagena secure to me the liberty of my country, and I will accede willingly to his desires.

15. "Believe me, Quiroga, your impotent exertions will only produce popular commotions, and will oblige them to invoke the aid of the invading enemy to remedy their evils,."

QUIROGA.

PROCLAMATION OF MORILLO.

Soldiers—General Quiroga, whom we have treated with so much consideration, and who voluntarily made me the most solemn promises to take no part in public affairs, has violated his word, and denies that he has disapproved of the illegal acts, in virtue of which the Cortes deprived the King of his Constitutional power; aided by a few imprudent men, he meditates new revolutions, and seeks to deliver us up to the discretion of the French by dividing our forces. For this purpose he has got possession of the command in Corunna, and without regarding the national honour or respecting his oaths, and without keeping in view the interests of the people, he attempts to tear the bowels of his country by compromising the soldiers whom he for the time keeps under his command, resolved to embark and leave them to their fate, when the foreigners have approached.

Soldiers! I know the indignation which so much perfidy must produce in your minds, but pity its authors. We will ever follow the same course, and resolved to combat the French, if they do not accede to our propositions, we will be faithful to our oaths, and will leave no means untried to avert from our country the infinite evils which threaten it; and those which have been produced by the men who having been always the enemies of order, have brought the public affairs to the deplorable state in which they actually are.

ARMY OF THE PYRENEES.

REPORT OF THE MAJOR-GENERAL OF THE ARMY OF THE PYRENEES TO THE MINISTER OF WAR.

"MADRID, JULY 11.

"As I have had the honour to inform your Excellency, the proposals of General Morillo have not suspended for a moment our march to Galicia. Lieutenant-General Count Bourck reports to his Royal Highness, under the date of the 7th, that he arrived at Villa Franca del Vierzo, without having met with an enemy, and that General Morillo, who had called all his forces to him, has sent to him one of his aides-de-camp, requesting him to take various measures for the security of persons and property; in return for which he promises to co operate in the deliverance of the King, and to act in concert with him, to re-establish order in the country, and to make the troops which have joined Quiroga return to their duty. These proposals of General Morillo have been acceded to. He had now only to recognise the Regency of Spain, and the preceding steps necessarily leading to this conclusion, there is every reason to believe that General Bourck, on arriving yesterday at Lugo, where all his troops were to join, has received the entire adherence of General Morillo.

"The Major-General Count GUILLEMINOT."

FOURTH CORPS.

REPORT OF THE DUKE OF CONEGLIANO TO THE MINISTER OF WAR.

"MOLINS DEL REY, JULY 16

"Yesterday returning from the environs of Vallirana, on the road to Tarragona, where I had found General Donnadieu following the movements of the enemy, an Aide-de-camp of Count Curial …SARIA, JULY … the power of the Royal combined armies, and the standard of King Ferdinand is hoisted on the ramparts of that place. I am not yet informed of all the details of this event. I only know that on the 9th, the commander of the battalion of provincial militia of Siguenza, Senor Bassi Galoguy, in concert with the troops of the garrison, recognised the authority of the King, and that the Governor, who resisted this noble impulse, left the place with thirty five officers, and proceeded towards Ygualada.—A French battalion of the second of the line, of the 10th division, marched, on information of this event, from Manresa to Cardona, and took possession of that fortress amidst cries of "Long live the King of France! Long live the King of Spain!" Lieutenant-General Count Donnadieu has informed me of this event. Yesterday, the 10th, the enemy made a sally from Barcelona with about 2,000 men, supported by four pieces of cannon. This force marched first towards Saria, where it had an engagement for about two hours with our sharp-shooters. Afterwards it advanced towards Garcia, where it was vigorously repulsed by a battalion of the 7th of the line and a platoon of cavalry, which several times charged the enemy in the plain. The field-pieces which supported the sally, fired, as well as the cannon of the fortress. The enemy had four killed and several wounded. We took five prisoners. We had one man killed and several wounded.

EXTRACT FROM A PRIVATE LETTER DATED BEFORE CADIZ, JULY 6.

"The French squadron which blockades Cadiz detained yesterday 20 boats loaded with provisions, which were attempting to enter the port. This morning the boats of the squadron seized, in spite of the fire of the batteries, several boats with provisions, which were passing under the Light-house of Cadiz.

"The greater part of the Spanish artillery is in our possession. We have procured a list of all that is in the arsenals of Cadiz. Most of the carriages are worm eaten, and declared by the Committee to be unable to bear the guns being twice fired

"The stock of powder is inconsiderable, and the number of carriages ready made is at the most a hundred."

(FROM THE JOURNAL DES DEBATS)

MADRID, JULY 12.

(BY AN EXPRESS.)

"Letters from Cadiz state, that the Communeros had separated themselves from the Masons The Decree of the 23d has much increased the pride and exultation of the Revolutionists

"A letter from Valencia states, that Ballasteros' soldiers arrived there daily in troops of 100 and 150; when they presented themselves to the Royalist General Sempere to be admitted under the Royal standard.

"We have news from Cadiz to the 6th. The King and the Royal Family were then in good health

"It was thought that Cadiz would not hold out longer than the month of July. Provisions were excessively dear; there was no commerce, and the people began to murmur.

"Our long boats have stopped some boats laden with provisions, which passed towards the light-house of Cadiz in spite of the fire of our batteries.

"A letter from Grenada announces that Generals Ballasteros, Villa-Campa, Zayas, Montes, Balauzat, Placentia, &c. were then in that city, with the remnants of several regiments when they exhausted their utmost efforts in endeavours to organize an army

"General Ballesteros appeared willing to traverse the Sierra de Ronda to gain Algesiras, to unite them with the remnant of Zayas Villa-Campa. Ballasteros had about 2,000 Zayas 1,200, and Villa-Campa 300 men. Another revolutionary General had about 500 men encamped at San Roque. A single French regiment could disperse those remnants, and become master of the whole coast from Gibraltar to Sancti Petri.

"According to a letter from Lucena, dated the 5th, Villa-Campa, with his army of 300 men, and Zayas, with 300 men and 200 horses, came on the 3d to Antequerra, and had taken the direction of Lucena; but the inhabitants having taken up arms were bold enough to pursue them. On the day following, 500 Royalist militia and 100 cavalry came from Cordova and entered Lucena, under the command of a French officer, to the great joy of the inhabitants. There are at Cordova 1000 Constitutional deserters.

"General Bourmont, who occupies Seville is engaged in the organisation of several Spanish regiments; there are two in a state of preparation, one of cavalry, and another of artillery.

"A flotilla, composed of a great number of light boats, is now ready to set sail to join the squadron, which has already received the assistance of the Trident, a 74, of the Guerriere, a smaller ship, of the corvette la Bayadera, and of the Zebre, an advice boat.

"The Antigone and the Zebre, with some small craft, are cruizing opposite Sancti Petri. A part of the squadron is at anchor before Rota: the remainder is under sail at the entrance of the Bay.

"P. S. We have this moment learned, that General Morillo, at he head of 3000 men, has joined the French division under Gene al Bourck.

"There is but a small number of the Exaltados who join with Quiroga: they are about to take refuge in Corunna or in Ferrol, but it is not known whether they will be received there or not.

"Some Journals incessantly repeat that no Constitutional General has detached himself from the Constitutional faction, although d'Abisbal, Castanos, Palafox, and probably at this moment Sarsfield, and lastly the most renowned among them, Morillo, have submitted to the King. The reasons are besides known why General Zayas is prevented from following their example."

MADRID JULY 12.

Yesterday the Regency received with the accustomed ceremonial, General de Royer, the Minister Plenipoteniary for his Majesty the King of Prussia,

…engaged in military … third campaign. It will be very importa… sive, considering the very great force which the Porte has collected against Greece, and especially against the Peloponnesus. Meantime the Greek Government has sent Emanuel Tombasi with five armed vessels and 1,200 Morcat soldiers to Candia, and is endeavouring to settle the little differences that exist between the islands of Hydra, Spezzia, and Ipsara.

According to the report of the captains of several vessels, who have arrived here within a few days, the Turkish fleet, consisting of 120, among which are several frigates of the largest size, with 15,000 troops on board, and attended by a great number of transports laden with provisions and ammunition, sailed on the 4th of June from Andro and Capo d'Oro, towards the Peloponnesus. This number does not include the Egyptian fleet fitting out at Alexandria, which consists of 80 sail, with troops on board, and is said to be destined against Candia. But at the date of the last accounts, it had not yet sailed. Captains of vessels from Durazzo say, that the Pacha of Scutari has set out with 40,000 Albanians, to march by way of Thessaly to the Morea. This army will receive re-inforcements on the road, so as to raise it to 80,000 men, in consequence of the repeated and energetic firmans of the Sultan, calling all the Mussalmen in Albania to arm against the Christians, and promising them the whole of the booty that shall be made. This great army is to join, in Thessaly, another of equal force which is forming there of the troops from Romelia and Asia: the march of these latter, who come from Constantinople, continues without interruption. According to the same accounts from Durazzo, Jursuf Pacha takes the command of the corps of Omer Pacha, Rasdit Pacha, and Mehmet Pacha, composed of Albanians and Epirots, who assemble to the number of 30,000 men, in Acarnania and Etelia, and will advance, by way of Lepanto, against the Morea. The Turkish fleet is to second in various points the operations of this formidable army.

CORFU, JUNE 3.

The latest accounts from the Morea are favourable to the Greeks Colocotroni has submitted, and their whole force is said to be near 50,000 men. Hitherto they have been chiefly in want of money, but they have now received some from the Society in England, and the promise of a farther supply.—They are now negociating with the Albanians, and if they can raise the sum which these people require, the consequences may be decisive. The Suliots are with them, even without money, and the Albanians would rather be with them than with the Pacha of Scutari, who, on his side, makes them very tempting offers. He requires from the Divan five millions of piastres to gain the Albanians; but the Sultan seems unwilling (perhaps unable) at present to sacrifice so large a sum. It is true that the chiefs of the insurgents do not agree together. This proceeds from their ambitious and rapacious disposition; but when danger is to be apprehended from the Turks, harmony is soon restored. The declaration published by Lord Strangford, relative to the resolutions of the Congress at Verona, has rather increased than depressed the courage of the Greeks, who declare that they will not listen to any proposals for a compromise.

FRANKFORT, JULY 7.

The Diet, in its sitting of the 26th of June, having received part of the votes relative to the piracy of literary property, resolved, that the remaining votes should be sent in during the summer vacation, to be registered in the protocol of the first sitting after the vacation. A time will then be fixed for the final decision of this affair.

The American ship Falconer, Emmes, from Antwerp to New York, put in here on Wednesday, 9th inst. from contrary winds. She has a great many passengers on board, among whom is the Count de Messeons, son of Lucien Buonaparte (about 25 years of age, and bears a striking resemblance to the late ex-Emperor), with his wife, a daughter of Joseph Buonaparte, and family. Whilst at the Royal Hotel on Thursday, he presented to Mr. Wilkinson (foreign clerk to Messrs. Foxes and Co) a very handsome ring, as a mark of respect for his kind attention and also gave him four doubloons towards the the Spanish subscription. When asked in what name the donation should be registered, he replied "in that of Charles Buonaparte." The Falcon sailed on Thursday for New York—Plymouth Telegraph.

We understand that a measure for removing the attainder from the five Scottish peerages of Mar, Kenmore, Duffus, Strathallan, and Nairne, was expected to pass the Legislature on Wednesday. We have reason to know that the most favourable wishes on the subject were long ago expressed in the highest quarter,—and this act of grace will be a just and striking acknowledg-

THE CALEDONIAN FANCY

One of the most magnificent fetes ev… was the Scotish Gala, on Monday nig… at Almack's. We can convey but a ver… outline of the scene. The most gorgeous sp… dour prevailed throughout.

The company (uncommonly numerous) began to arrive at half-past nine; at half-past ten the Chieftains of the principal Highland Clans appeared, with the Duke of Argyll at their head.

At eleven the great folding doors to the saloon on the ground floor were thrown open, and the name of the Duchess of Kent was announced. The Duke of Argyll, full in costume, hurried to the private door, opposite Duke-street, and preceded her Royal Highness, and suite of Ladies, from the entrance along the room, up the staircase, and into the ball-room, bowing repeatedly on his way with his usual grace. The other Chieftains paid the same honours to the suite. Next appeared the Duke and Duchess of Clarence, to whom the same honours were paid. Lastly came the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester. The three Ladies looked remarkably well; they wore dresses of gold lama, silk head-dresses, enriched with diamonds and feathers. The rooms were decorated with wreaths and festoons of flowers, &c.; the Ladies' dresses in the style of every country, the aggregate i… more than eastern splendour, consisting of gold … tissue the mass relieved by an embroidery … diamonds. All the Ladies were objects of … culiar attraction on that night.

The dancing commenced immediately a… the procession of the orphan boys attached … the Caledonian Asylum—for it was for t… benefit this ball was given.

The true Highland Fling was given at th… set by Mr. Stewart Nicolson and one of the … dies Paget. It then became one of the most … mated scenes ever witnessed, the spirit of w… continued unabated till halfpast two; many … departed, but it lost none of its interest till … o'clock. There were 1,000 persons present, … one of whom could gain admittance without … mission of the Lady Patronesses, Lady Gwy… and the Hon. Mrs. Hope. We never saw so finish… ed an exhibition as this, in every respect, whether we allude to the beauty of the ladies or the dignity of the men, for there were 46 heads of Highland clans present—an assemblage unexampled. But to return to the Ladies:—It seem… ed as if it were the Court of Charles II.; for we have now a picture in our eye, in the possession of a Noble Duke, descriptive of one of th… halls in the Banquetting House at Whitehall. The self-same faces, the same flounces in dresses, the same mode of dressing the hair, namely—curls in bunches on each side of the head, but flat a… top. There was one singular feature, that al… most all the Ladies, married or single, wor… diamonds—it was a flitting firmament indeed!
